This year for the Association for Financial Counseling and Planning Education (AFCPE) Symposium, we had grad and undergrad students attend and present posters. This symposium is an excellent way for students to find out more about the Family Finance field, gain important knowledge, and network. Students can apply to be on the Knowledge Bowl team or apply for a scholarship to have most of their expenses paid. The symposium is always the week before Thanksgiving. If you are a Family Finance emphasis student, please plan to attend your Junior or Senior year. The symposium can be beneficial for other majors as well. Many of the careers from our department interact with financial issues.
